

Seville
1 March 1956

Dear Mr. Tovar,

In your last letter you asked me on what day and train we ~~would~~ arrive in Salamanca. We shall arrive on no train but in our black Plymouth. The day seems to be the twenty-eighth of March, or, less likely, the twenty-seventh. We shall pick out a hotel when we see them, and that may be fairly late in the day, so that I shall not call on you probably until the next morning.

We are about to leave Seville for Mérida, and then to Portugal, where my address, in case you wished to communicate with me, will be TURISMO PORTUGAL, RUA ALEXANDRE HERCULANO 12-A, Lisboa.

Mr. Dolg helped me with the books I needed. He was very kind. I have given the Johns Hopkins University and other correspondents your name as my letter-drop in Salamanca.

With best wishes from us both,
James H. Oliver

P.S. I shall attend the Congress in Madrid, April 15-19.
