PREFACE.

THE close of the 18th century witnessed the final extinction, as a spoken language, of the old Celtic vernacular of Cornwall. Dolly Pentreath, who died in 1788, has had the credit of being the last person who could talk and scold in this tongue; but William Bodenner, who died about the year 1794, at a very advanced age (102, the same as Dolly Pentreath's), could "converse with old Dolly," and "talked with her for hours together in Cornish"; so says the historian, Polwhele *; and further he says † of Tomson, "a native of Truro, an engineer or maker of engines for the use of mines," who, as well as he knew, might be alive when he wrote, "he knows more, I believe, of the Cornish language than the old lady, whom he celebrated, ever knew." "I met him at Plymouth Dock" (now Devonport) "in 1789; the old man, hearing my name announced, saluted me instantly with the motto of my family," Karenza whelas karenza, love worketh love.

The only known literary remains of the old language are very meagre. They are the following t: "Mount Calvary," a poem of little more than 2000 lines, of the 15th century; five miracle plays (Guaremirs) or dramas—three, "The Origin of the World," "The Passion of our Lord Jesus Christ," and "The Resurrection, with the Death of Pilate," of about the same date—one dated 1611, "The Creation of the World, with Noah's Flood,"-and another dated 1504, "The Life of St. Mereadocus, Bishop and Confessor," discovered in 1869, by Mr. Wynne, among his manuscripts in the Peniarth library; a Vocabulary of the language as it was spoken about the 10th or 11th century ||; another Vocabulary, & with the corresponding Welsh, Armoric and Irish words, collected by the learned Edward Lhuyd, at the beginning of the last century, when the language was fast dying out; a Grammar by the same with a Preface in Cornish, of the language as it was spoken in his day; he also gives us an old "Tale"; and, "An Elegy on the death of William the Third," of his own composing. are also two or three versions of the first chapter of Genesis, the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Ten Commandments; * a pastoral song; another on the curing of pilchards; many proverbs, wise saws, and riddles; some colloquies and colloquial phrases; a few mottoes on the coats of arms of the old families, and epitaphs; a letter written in 1776 by William Bodenner; and a few other small trifles.+

But though these are the only known literary remains, they are not the only remnants of the old tongue. Scawen, writing about two centuries ago, says, "The Cornish tongue hath mostly resided for some ages past in the names of the people, the gentry chiefly (?), and in the names of places observed to be significant mostly as to the site, &c., or for something eminent about them."! The discovery of a meaning of these names in the old language, which would fit the places, has long been a favourite pursuit with the antiquary; Camden in his Britannia, Carew in his Survey, Norden in his Speculum, (i.e. Mirror), Scawen in his Dissertation, Hals, Tonkin, Polwhele, Hitchins and Drew, Davies Gilbert, Sir John Maclean, and others, in their Parochial and Family Histories, Baxter in his Glossarium, Lhuyd and Pryce in their Archæologia, Borlase in his Antiquities and Natural History, Whitaker in his Cathedral, Blight, Murray, Black, Besley, &c., in their Guides or Handbooks, and many others in various works and papers on the peculiarities of the county, have thus given translations of many hundreds of these names, some good, some bad; some right, but perhaps more wrong.

The first aim of the compiler of the following work was to collect together as many as possible of the names which had thus been translated. He then saw that the analogy of these, assistance that he might expect || from various parts of the County, a knowledge of the old language, and some acquaintance with its kindred dialects. would enable him to give fair and reasonable explanations of many other names. He proceeded to collect these names from the histories, gazeteers, and directories of the county: from old deeds and other documents; from maps § and plans; from newspapers these will generally shew in what parish in the county the more important places, the names of which are given in the Glossary, are found. 2014. Diditized by DING. The Salamanca Corpus

p. 207, will prove; and he desires to express his best thanks, not only to those whose names are there given, but also to the many others who have rendered him assistance, some of whom have desired that their names might not be published, and as a consequence, when he has agreed with their views, he has not distinguished their renderings from his own, except it may be by the omission of a?, the mark of uncertainty.

Among his helpers he can reckon dignitaries of the church, and members of both houses of parliament; learned professors at the universities parsons, and methodist preachers, both ounders and local; doctors, and lawyers, and land surveyors; officers of the army and navy, and members of the society of friends; national schoolmasters and registrars of births and deaths; mine agents and miners; master mariners and fishermen. The following notice of the Glossary in the Western Daily Mercury, almost too flattering to be republished by the compiler, shews well how these and others can help. "To criticise adequately such a work as this would demand an acquaintance with its subject-matter as great as Dr. Bannister himself possesses, and to this not even the omniscience of a journalist would pretend. But to make suggestions sent possesses, and to this not even the omniscience of a journalist would pretend. But to make suggestions as to the correct rendering of special words is within the province of any native of the district, and we can hardly recommend Cornishmen with a little leisure a more graceful employment, than thus helping Dr. Bannister in his illustration of their county's history." By such help, in some cases, crude guesses at the meaning of the names have been turned into correct renderings.

§ More especially Martyns', 1748, &c. In these and the Index he published, which was afterwards republished by the late Rev. W. Wallis of Bodmin, the names are most accurately spelt; and a reference to these will generally shew in what parish in the county the more important places.

and bills of sale; and lastly from the Tithe Apportionments of the several parishes. These last have proved a most prolific source, but at the same time a very puzzling one. Here, in many parishes, every field has its distinctive name; and, more particularly in the western parts of the county, many of these are decidedly Celtic; some so correctly spelt that it cantat once be said what the derivation is (i.e. what words enter into their composition), and what is the plain meaning of the names. But in a far greater number of cases it requires a familiarity with the general Celtic nomenclature of the county to enable one to see in the badly spelt name, resemblance to any known words; and often they have been so distorted from the fair, simple, rational meaning that they bore in the Celtic, that they appear to be common English names with a frivolous, foolish, absurd meaning. In giving these and other names in his Glossary, the compiler has not attempted to correct the spelling, so as to make the meaning he supposes the names ought to bear more evident. In every case, as often as seemed necessary, he has given in italics (within parenthesis) the Celtic words, generally in their primary form, which he supposes have entered into the composition of the name. Very often, in consequence of the grammatical laws of initial mutation, toommon to all Celtic languages, and still oftener, from there being no fixed orthography for the Cornish branch, and the utter ignorance of the language by the surveyors, who wrote down the names of the fields, and the labourers and farmers who told them the names. || names that perhaps had never been written or spelt before, there may seem to be little resemblance between the supposed roots and the name; and hence it has often been said, by a little manipulation you can make a name mean anything you like: vowels go for nothing, and the consonants + may be changed for any other. But this is not the case; as, notwithstanding a great amount of latitude that is allowed, there are certain fixed canons, which must be attended to, and which limit the range of conjecture.

What has just been said with regard to field names, given in comparatively recent times, and which, to those who gave the fields the names by which they are called in the Tithe Apportionments, were scarcely proper names at all, but common appelatives, descriptive, in their vernacular, of "their scite on high or low ground, their relative situations," their shape, particular trees growing in them, their produce—wheat, barley, &c., or derived from the animals feeding in them, or birds frequenting them, some event that happened in them, or some former owner or occupier, is true of other Those who first wrote them down were probably ignorant of the language in names. which they were significant; and those who pronounced the names commonly had no idea of their etymology, | and could neither write nor spell; so that the scribes had to than the compiler has been able to discover.

In all languages letters of the same organs are liable to be mutually interchanged, often according to the caprice of individual pronunciation; but in the Celtic languages this is done by fixed grammatical rule, e.g. tre, a dwelling, becomes in certain cases dre, drea, but could not become, as Dr Charnock in the preface to his Patronymica Cornu-Britannica, p. xi, says it does, frea, free, free, free, dec.; d is a dental, f a labial, and they are not thus interchanged; but b in brea, bre, a hill, is a labial, and therefore this word assumes these latter forms in certain cases when entering into the composition of proper names.

1 Polwhele's "History of Cornwall," vol 1, p. 166.

1 Tonkin, writing to Gwavas, 1736, a sort of dedication to his Cornish Vocabulary, the manuscript or hich came into Dr. Pryce's hands, and, as he acknowledges, was largely used by him, says, "I may add too, that very few of those who speak the language, can give any tolerable account of the orthography, much less of the etymology or derivation of those words which they make use of, and are many times apt to write and spell according to their several ideas of propriety, or individual fancy or caprice, as well as they could catch the names from their ignorant informers, who also might differ among themselves in their pronunciation of the same names or words, thus introducing another element of discord and difficulty.

Some may say, such being the case, where is the good of attempting to recover the meaning of a host of "uncouth," "barbarous" * names of places, &c., of which very few persons ever heard, and still fewer care. With much to encourage him in his long and arduous task, the compiler has had many discouragements; and his endeavours have been spoken of as hopeless and useless. He himself thinks otherwise. Within the last one hundred years, a language or dialect believed by some once "to have been spoken throughout the central and southern divisions of England by the original inhabitants,"+ has died a natural death, and every effort ought to be made to preserve what little remains of it. Even with regard to proper names, permanent as they may seem, they are liable to be changed or lost. Within two miles of the place where this is written are villages now known as Higher and Lower Cusgarne. Not a hundred years ago they were Cusgarne Wartha and Wollas; the meaning of Wartha and Wollas is now unknown to everyone in the two villages. In the same way, many of the fieldnames in the Tithe Apportionments, made forty years ago, have been changed; though in some cases the English name, substituted for the old Celtic one, has much the same signification as the latter, the tenant having been guided by the same peculiarities of the field as his predecessor; but ask him about the field by its old name, and he will not know which it is. Hence the importance of at once collecting together these old names, while some of those still live who made the surveys for the Tithe Apportionments, or who gave these persons the names they entered on their plans, &c.

In the opinion of the compiler, old personal names, the names of individuals, jumble two or three words together, making but one of them all, the they pronounce them rightly enough Of this you were pleased to give me lately some instances as in merastadu, which they thus pronounce in one breath, as if it had been one word, whereas it is a contraction of four, mere 'ras tha Dev, much thanks to God, and anciently written, maur gras tha Dev; and merastawhy, much thanks to you, a contraction of meer 'ras tha why.'—Cambrian Journal, 1861, to which it was sent by Prince Louis Lucien Bonaparte, in proof of Dr. Pryce's plagiarism.

* The compiler has heard these terms applied to the old names, by Cornishmen, who preferred the transportation of the proof of Dr. Pryce's Pedigin serves. But when the preferred the transportation of the proof of Dr. Pryce's Pedigin serves.

*The compiler has heard these terms applied to the old names, by Cornishmen, who preferred the "more euphonious" (?) English names. But what can be more melodious than the following string of names put into a sort of song, nonsense verse, though every name is significant, by old Mr. Le Grice, copied as here given, excepting the punctuation, from a very old manuscript:—

"Karn e quiden, pol pen henna; Wheal en druckia, barle wenna; Treg a varah; treen, chi kembra, Tol peden penwith, pen drea hendra, Karn kie nudjack; garle dinnia, Mene darva; vellan hoggan, Merther uny, tre ga minion; Amal veor; pol goon, Bos ahan; Trego nebris; begil tuban, Hally widden; wal crous woola; Tre la warren; park in skeba, Clies, tre gerthen; ambe juah,

Praes an bygle, vellan vrane,
Pons a nooth, bos traze, tre tane.
Amal veer, drul as, tre neere,
Skil e wadden, boughe heere.
Peden a vounder; gwills, carn jue
Tre reef, pedn pons, goon gumpas, treu.
Pedn a venton, treu je vean,
Chi un, carne gwavas, usk a jean.
Em la, chi pons; gwal an crane
Pons an dain; tren gwainton carne.
Drim. be jowa; crouse en vra
Kille ankar, boen, trem bah."

Professor Max Müller speaking of the language says ("Chips," v. 3, p. 257), "It seems to have been a melodious and yet by no means an effeminate language, and Scawen places it in this respect above most of the other Celtic dialects:—"Cornish,' he says, 'is not to be gutturally pronounced, as the Welsh for the most part is, nor mutteringly, as the Armorick, nor whiningly, as the Irish (which two latter qualities seem to have been contracted from their servitude), but must be lively and manly spoken, like other primitive tongues!"

† Advertisement of a "Gerlevar Cernewac," i.e. Cornish Word-Book, in 1842, by the Rev. Robert Williams of Rhydycroesau, which he published or rather completed, having previously published part, in 1865, as the "Lexicon Cornu-Britannicum"; see p. v, Note ‡.

enter largely into the composition of Cornish local names. In all ages and countries, persons have been in the habit of calling their lands and their houses after their own names, or others have so called them. There are not many ancient purely Cornish personal names extant as such, but there are very many Welsh, Armoric, and Gaelic The reason of the difference is plain; while these languages have very ancient records, poems, legends, histories, * &c., there are no very ancient Cornish writings, no ancient history of Cornwall, and not many references to it in the histories of other countries. In Domesday Survey we have the names of tenants, both in the Conqueror's own time, and in the time of Edward the Confessor; but nearly all these are plainly Teutonic, and, with a recognized meaning in the Anglo-Saxon tongue, which will be generally found given in the following pages; and these names, Teutonic though they are, very often are found suffixed to the Celtic Tre-, Ros-, Pol-, Lan-, Caer-, and Pen-, as well as prefixed to the Teuton -ford, -ley, -ham, and -ton, in names of places in Cornwall. Older than Domesday are the records of manumissions in the Bodmin Gospels.+ In these, while the manumitters and witnesses bore for the most part Teutonic names of the same character as those in Domesday, and used in like manner, many of the serfs manumitted have names, so peculiar, that they are at once seen to have their origin from another, and altogether different, language. Some of these are very similar to those found in the genuine ancient Welsh genealogies and other writings, and they are, without any doubt, pure Celtic, though badly spelt by Anglo-Saxon scribes. But while there are a few here, that may be possibly thus identified, very numerous are the instances in which the suffixes in local names are the same, or nearly the same, as those old Welsh and other Celtic personal names; and the compiler has not hesitated to use them in explaining the Cornish names of places. Many of the ancient inscribed stones of the county also bear similar names; and the saints, whose names enter into the composition of the names of parishes, have names closely resembling those found in Wales, Brittany, and Ireland. What the meaning of many of these is, the compiler cannot say; others may be able to suggest a meaning, and so trace out remnants of the language that have escaped him. Doubtless many of these names are not indigenous. but adopted, with certain variations, from the nomenclature of other people, introduced by foreign merchants and immigrants, Christian missionaries, or Roman and other conquerors; but where they are indigenous, taking their rise in the land, given by the people themselves from their native language, they will commonly be found significant in the vernacular, as the others are in the tongues whence they are derived.

^{*} Contrast the meagre remains of Cornish literature, enumerated on page v., with the account Mr. M Arnold gives in his essays "On the study of Celtic literature," in the "Cornhill Magazine" for 1866.—
The Myrvyrian manuscripts (Welsh) in the British Museum amount to 47 volumes of poetry, containing 4,700 pieces, in 1,600 pages, besides 2,000 Englynion, or epigrammatic stanzas; and 53 volumes of prose, in about 15,300 pages. In the library of Trinity College, Dublin, and in that of the Irish Academy, there is, according to Professor O'Curry, even a greater number of Irish manuscripts. There are the Book of the Dun Cow, the Book of Leinster, the Book of Ballymote, the Speckled Book, the Book of Leain, &c., &c. The Annals of the Four Masters give the years of the foundations and destructions of churches and castles, the obituaries of remarkable personages, the inaugurations of kings, the battles of chiefs, the contests of clans, the ages of bards, abote, bishops, &c. There are books of pedigrees and genealogies, martyrologies, and festologies, and topographical tracts, in which we touch the most ancient traditions, traditions which were committed to writing, when the ancient customs of the people were unbroken. We get the origin and history of the countless monuments of Ireland, of the ruined church and tower, the sculptured cross, the holy well, and the commemorative name of almost every townland and parish in the whole island. Such materials are invaluable in the study of nomenclature, and they have been made good use of by Mr Joyce in his excellent work on "The Origin and History of Irish Names of Places."

1 See B.m. on page 207.

A greater variety of family names or surnames exists in Cornwall than in any other county; for, in addition to the common ones found in all parts of England, especially patronymics, there are many names that are peculiarly Cornish. Some of these are the Celtic equivalents of common English ones, which are found in Cornwall side by side with them, and are derived from that infinite variety of sources that have given rise to surnames, such as trade, occupation, rank, profession, natural temperament, bodily peculiarity, animals, birds, trees, &c. But others, and these more easily recognized as Cornish, are the local names beginning with the well-known prefixes "Tre, Ros, Pol, Lan, Caer, and Pen," by which, as Camden says, "You may know the most Cornish men." Not that persons bearing such family names are the most numerous in Cornwall, they are far outnumbered by those who have simple patronymics; but these are the most distinctly and peculiarly Cornish names; and persons bearing such names, wherever found, may, as a rule, but not without many exceptions, be considered as from Cornwall, i.e., taking their name from some place in Cornwall, whether their ancestors, who first had the name, were originally Cornish, or only Anglo-Saxon, Norman, or other settlers, connected with the place whence the name was taken, by ownership or otherwise. Many however of these local family names have been so altered, through ignorance, or caprice in spelling, that one cannot say positively, in the absence of documentary evidence, whence they were originally derived, and they may be referred to several places as their possible source.

In conclusion, the compiler would apologize for the many irregularities and inaccuracies, mistakes and misfits that he knows exist in the Glossary. He must plead in extenuation of these, want of experience in the art of book-making; the nature of his undertaking, something like a first attempt to recover a lost language; and the length of time the work has been passing through the press. It is more than six years since it was announced as shortly to be published, and subscriptions solicited to enable him to bring out his book, a work of immense labour, but one, in which, from its nature, but few could be expected to take any interest. He has at intervals published parts of the book, to show the progress he was making, excite and keep up an interest in the subject, and obtain hints and help. He has never wished it to be supposed that he considers himself to have succeeded in discovering or recovering the original, and therefore the correct, rendering of all, or even most of the names+ he has attempted to

^{*} It might be thought that the length of time the work has been in hand ought to have made the result more perfect. The compiler has constantly been adding to his materials, and seeking fresh information, by dommunication with persons in all parts of the county, correspondence in the public papers, and lecturing in various towns. He has again and again had to modify his views as to the meaning of words and names; and now after being so long occupied with this, he feels less inclined to speak confidently with regard to many of the names, than he did when he began to publish nearly three years ago. He has been blamed for giving so many and so different meanings to the same names; but where authorieties are given, he thought it best that each writer should be heard, and where no authority is mentioned, the names seemed to him fairly to admit of these varied renderings; and he would say, as E. Lhuyd formerly said, "Eligat lector quod maxime placet." It is possible, too, that as the same names occur over and over again, in various parts of the county, the different derivations and meanings may fit different places. It is the same with proper names, as Professor Miller says it is with other words, while one word may, by a varied process of corruption, assume different forms, widely different words may, by the same means, assume the same form.

may, by a variet process to correspond, assume unlevely forms, which interest works may, by the same means, assume the same form.

Many of the names in the Glossary, to which a conjectural derivation, often little better than a guess, has been given, might rather have been relegated to the Lists of Unexplained Names; and the compiler thinks, if he had to do his work over again, he should now so do; but at the time he was influenced by the feeling that led Lhuyd to write his Cornish Grammar. In his preface he says, "I know very well that the inhabitants could have done this work much better than is done by me. But yet I considered, that it was better to give some sort of help, than no help at all, and likewise that this poor work of mine might induced ainthetical beginding glosdenge." The Salannaca Corpus explain. The number of notes of interrogation (??), marks of doubt, and also the various renderings he has given of the same names, shew this. It would require a much better acquaintance with the history, traditions, and peculiarities of so many families and places than is attainable, to speak with certainty of their true derivation and real original meaning. He wishes his renderings, &c to be considered for the most part as conjectural-tentative, and suggestive. He courts correction, and would be obliged by anyone pointing out mistakes and misfits with regard to their own names, or the names of places in their own neighbourhood; and to scholars living in other countries, where not only a Celtic nomenclature prevails, but also a Celtic language is still spoken, if, from the analogy of their own nomenclature, they would point out what may seem to them more probable meanings of these names in Cornwall. It is possible that these latter persons may see in the many names found in Cornwall, which are in the Glossary characterized as Teutonic, a Celtic derivation; and also that the general philologist may detect in many of the names, especially in those in the lists of Unexplained Names, traces of other languages, and proofs of various theories that have The compiler does not at been propounded as to a Semitic or Turanian element. present enter into a discussion on these points. POSTSCRIPT.—UNEXPLAINED NAMES.—Page 193.—It was intended, as is intimated at the foot of page 192, to have had inserted after the Glossary, the third and fourth pages of the wrappers of Parts I of IV. on which were given the names the compiler had met in his researches, but for which he could not at the time give a reasonable conjectural rendering. He has, however, been persuaded to reprint these names, and has added many others which he has since found in the Tithe Apportionments of the parishes referred to in the number put after the name, the key to which will be found in the LIST, page xii. He solicits assistance from persons connected with the places, to enable him, if possible, to get at the true derivation and meaning of these names, and to trace in them any relice of the old vernacular. To some of these persons many of the names may seem to require no explanation; but, it may be otherwise with those who have not the knowledge they themselves possess of local history, traditions, peculiarities, usages, idioms, &c., and therefore it may be desirable that explanations should be given. Some of the names, doubtless, are plain English, "meaning what they say;" and either, given with some definite reason, or are mere "fancy names," or, "called after some other place." But, on the other hand some of these apparently English names may be modifications of good old Celtic words, disguised by bud orthography, or changed by the "metamorphic process" common in all "countries where two languages come in contact with each other, and where, in the end, one is superseded by the other." (Max M. Chips, v. iii., p. 300). Some again may be the result of mistakes, either from the imperfect pronuciation of those who gave the names to the surveyors, or from the difficulty these found in catching the sound, or in spelling names that never before had been spelt; or they may have arisen from their own mistakes in copying from "rough notes," or are misprints. As a consequence many may be of little value. However, it has been though

^{*} Dr. Stratton, in his interesting little work on the "Celtic Origin of Greek and Latin," gives the Celtic roots of many classical proper names; but, W. Obermuller in his "Deutsch-Keltisches Geshichtlich Geograpisches Wörterbuch," goes much beyond this; reversing the plan followed by the Rev. W. Lysons in his "British Ancestors" and holding that the Celt was the precursor of civilization everywhere, and the universal nomenclator of the world, he gives Celtic derivations not only for the names of rivers, cities, provinces, peoples and persons belonging to the Aryan family in Europe and Asia, but also to the Turanian in China, and the Semitic in North Africa and Palestine; and has a Celtic derivation even for the sacred, incommunicable and ineffable name

A LIST of the 208 Ancient Parishes wholly or in part in the County or Archdeaconry of Cornwall, Arranged and numbered so as to shew their relative situation, east and west, beginning with the Isles of Scilly and going from the Land's End towards Devonshire;—1-12 are as far west as Penzance; 13-68 as far west as Truro; 28-35 in the Meneage or Lizard district; 69-114 as far west as Bodmin; and 137-208 are beyond the limit laid down by Mr. Herman Merivale, in his Historical Studies, as the boundary between Celt and Saxon.

^{*} The names in Italics have not been found in, or connected with Cornwall, by the compiler; they are given on the authority of Dr. Charnock's. "Patronymica Cornu-Britannica," in which there are some 1,600 names. A review of this book in the "West Briton" of July 7th, 1870, says "Many of these names are altogether new to us, and we do not believe they were ever in use in the county." The compiler would not speak so positively. Many a Cornishman has wondered where he has picked up his 20,000 names. Doubtless some of his, as well as Dr. Charnock's, are the result of bad spelling, affected orthography, arbitrary change, or even misprints; and persons bearing some of the names may have been only officially, or accidentally, connected with the county.

- A.S.—Mr. Augustus Smith, of Tresco Abbey, Isles of Scilly.
- a.s.—Armoric saint; many of these saints have names very similar to those who have given names to Cornish parishes, &c., which are commonly found suffixed to Lan, &c.
 B.—Dr. Borlase's "Islands of Scilly," "Antiquities," and "Natural History of Cornwall."
- Bax -W. Baxter's "Glossarium Antiquitatum Britannicarum."
- Beal—Rev. William Beal, author of "Britain and the Gael." His derivations, &c., mostly from the Irish Gaelic. He kindly corrected and annotated most of the proof sheets, and made many suggestions.
- Bl.—Blight's "Week at the Land's End," 1861, &c.
- B.m.—Names, mostly those of manumitters, found in the manumissions recorded in the Bodmin Gospels (British Museum, select MSS., 9881, A. 1, A.), first printed in Mr. Davies Gilbert's History, v, 3, p. 408; then in Rev. W. Wallis's "Bodmin Register," with a translation; afterwards, more correctly, in Dr. Oliver's "Monasticon," p. 431; Kemble's "Codex Diplomaticus," v. 4, p. 308; and Thorpe's "Diplomatarium Anglicum," p. 623. The names of these manumitters are for the most part plain Anglo-Saxon, a few appear to be Celtic: nearly all the slaves manumitted bore Celtic names; a few Anglo-Saxon and Bible (mostly Old Testament or Hebrew) names: the witnesses to the manumissions, mostly clerics, bore either Celtic, Anglo-Saxon, or Scripture names.
- Bo.—Dr. Bosworth's "Anglo-Saxon and English Dictionary."
- Bond's (Thomas) "History of East and West Looe," with MS. notes by the late Mr. Jonathan Couch, of Polperro.

Rp.—Bishop.

Buller's "Statistical Account of St. Just in Penwith," 1842.

- C.—Colonel Cocks, of Treverbyn Vean, who not only corrected and annotated several sheets of the Glossary, but also lent his MS. of Cornish Names with meanings.
- c.—Old Cornish; the orthography mostly followed is that of Williams's "Lexicon Cornu-Britannicum." As the chief object of the Glossary is to shew how much of the old Cornish seems to be preserved in the local and family nomenclature of the County, it will be understood, that where a word is found in Italics (within parenthesis), this word, unless otherwise described, is old Cornish, mostly in its primary form, and is to be found thus spelt in "Williams' Lexicon."
- c.—Under CAR-, &c., for castle, carn, or enclosure; under PARK, for close.
- Cam.—Camden's "Britannia" (mostly Bp. Gibson's ed., 1695); and "Remaines concerning Britaine."

Car.—Carew's "Survey of Cornwall," 1602.

- Ch.—Charnock's "Local Etymology," 1859; "Patronymica Cornu-Britannica," 1870, &c.
- cent.—Century, showing the date of a document in which the name as spelt is found.
- cf.—Confer, compare. c.n.—Christian or fore-name.
- C.S.G.—C. S. Gilbert's "Historical Survey," 1817.
- d.—Danish; the late Major Bickford referred many Cornish Names to this source.

d.—Under TRE-, for dwelling.

- d.d.—Name of a manor in the Domesday Survey, 1086.
- Dev.—Devonshire. The compiler has introduced among the names belonging to Cornwall proper, some that would more properly belong to Devonshire. The river Tamar divides the two counties through the greater part of its course; but Boyton, in Cornwall, and Pancraswyke, in Devonshire, are partly east and partly west of the river; as also is the parish of Bridgerule, but the east part is in Devon, the west in Cornwall. S. Budeaux, though wholly east of the Tamar, is partly in Cornwall; and Maker, though wholly west, is partly in Devonshire, as are also the whole of the parishes of Werrington and North Petherwin, though west of the Tamar. But these two parishes and S Giles in the Heath (east of the Tamar and in Devonshire) and the whole of Bridgerule and S. Budeaux are in the Archdeaconry of Cornwall; while the whole of Bridgerule and S. Budeaux are in the Archdeaconry of Totnes; and Pancraswyke is in the Archdeaconry of Barnstaple. Thus, almost along the whole course of the river, from its rise in Morwenstow, the most north-

- D.G.—Davies Gilbert's "Mount Calvary, 1826"; "Creation of the World. with Noah's Flood," 1827; "Parochial History of Cornwall," 1838, &c. In consequence of the illness of Mr. Davies Gilbert during the time this history was passing through the press, he was unable to correct the proof sheets; as a consequence, the book is full of typographical errors, especially in the case of topographical and family names, about which the London printer must have been totally ignorant, and therefore it is not strange that these should be sadly mis-spelt.

H.M.W.-Mr Henry Michell Whitley, of Penarth

Holloway's (William) "Dictionary of Provincialisms," 1833.

H.T.—Mr. Henry Trevascus, of Carsawsen, Mylor, who examined several of the latter proof sheets and gave many suggestions, having long paid attention to the meaning of Cornish Names.

i.—Irish Gaelic. e.—erse.

i.q.—idem quod, the same as; where the word following is in Roman Caps, if it requires an explanation, it will generally be found in its proper alphabetical place. Some of these "synonymes" are mere variations in spelling the name of the same place; others are found attached as distinctive names to different places, though really the same name with a different spelling.

I.T.—Rev. Isaac Taylor's "Words and Places."

J.-P. W. Joyce's "Irish Names of Places," 1869.

J.B.—Mr. John Bellows, of Gloucester, to whom the compiler is deeply indebted for most carefully examining and correcting most of his proof sheets, and for many suggestions and hints, as also for some renderings from Gwavas's MSS.

J.Ca. — The late Rev. John Carne. Vicar of Merther. from whose paper, in the Journal of the Royal Institution of Cornwall, No. 4, p. 10, most of the identifications of the Domesday manors are taken.

J.G.—Mr. John George, fisherman, Mousehole; terms in common use among fishermen.
J.M.—Sir John Maclean, author of the "Parochial and Family History of the Deanery of Trigg Minor."

Jo.C.—The late Ma. Jonathan Couch of Polperrollamanca Corpus J.W.—Archdeacon John Williams Gomer, 1852

Ly.—Lysons' (Daniel and Samuel) "Magna Britannia," 1814.

m. - Under WHEAL, &c., for mine.

m -Modern.

Max M.—Max Müller's "Lectures on the Science of Language," 1864; "Chips," &c.

m.c.—Modern Cornish; words now or recently in use; Mr. T. Q. Couch, Journal of the Royal Institution of Cornwall, No. 1, p. 6; the late Mr. T. Garland, ib., No. 3, p. 45; also, No. 2, p. 75, No. 5, p. 39; Mr. W. Sandys' "Specimens of Cornish Provincial Dialect," with Glossary, 1846, &c.

Mc L.—Mr. H. Mac Lauchlan, of the Ordnance Survey, "On the Duchy Manors, Castles, Earthworks, &c., in Cornwall," in the Reports of the Royal Institution of Cornwall.

Moody's (Mrs.) "What is your Name," 1863.

m.s. - Names found in the ancient "Inscribed Stones" of Cornwall, mostly Celto-Roman.

M.—J.W.M.—The Rev. J. W. Murray, Vicar of Mylor, who corrected many of the sheets of the Glossary, and made many suggestions, drawn from his intimate knowledge of the kindred Welsh.

Mur. - Murray's "Handbook of Cornwall."

N.—Mr. Edwin Norris's "Names of Places in Scilly," 'Archæologia Cambrensis,' Jan.,

1863, p. 41; "Cornish Drama" 1859, &c.

n.f.— Family names, which the compiler has not found as names of places, at least as so spelt, in the County; most of the Cornish names of estates, &c., are found as family names; there are, however, many others from a great variety of sources and languages; very many patronymics, and corruptions of Christian names, and some nicknames.

nickn. - Nickname.

Nord.-Norden's "Speculi Britanniæ Pars," 1728, written 1584.

North's "Week in the Isles of Scilly," 1850.

O.—Dr. Oliver's "Monasticon Diœcesis Exoniensis," 1846; "Lives of the Bishops of Exeter," 1861, &c.

o.—olim, formerly, in olden times, or in old deeds. The compiler would feel obliged to any one having ancient documents, if he would communicate to him archaic modes of spelling.

O.m.—Ordnance Map or Survey.

o.n. - Old Norse.

o.n.f. - Old family name, mostly extinct.

o.w.n.—Old Welsh name; many are marked simply (w.), especially where it is thought a Cornishman, bearing the same or a similar name, has given his name to an estate, &c.

P.—Colonel Peard, of Trenython, who kindly corrected and annotated the latter sheets of the Glossary. and has already given conjectural renderings of most of the Unexplained Names.

Ped.—E. H. Pedler's "Anglo-Saxon Episcopate of Cornwall," 1856; "Names of Places in the Cornish Dramas," 1859, &c.

pers.—Persian. ph.—Phœnician.

Pr.—Dr. Pryce's "Mineralogia Cornubiensis," 1778; "Archæologia Cornu-Britannica," 1790, especially the "List of Cornish British Names," believed to be chiefly those explained by E. Lhuyd, and alluded to by him in a letter to Tonkin, May 4, 1703, printed by Dr. Pryce.

pr.-pronounced.

p.s.—Marks most of the ancient parishes in the County (as c.d. chiefly does the modern ones), and shews the patron saint, chiefly as determined by Dr. Oliver.

R.B.K.—The Rev. Richard Byrne Kinsman, Vicar of Tintagel.

redup.—Reduplication, when the same word is repeated in a name in two languages, &c. R.H.—Mr. Robert Hunt aptence f Romanges and Drolle of the West of England," 1865. R.S.H.—The Rev. R. S. Hawker's "Footprints," "Echoes," &c.

R.W.—The Rev. Robert Williams, author of "Eminent Welshmen," where most of the Welsh personal names are found: "Lexicon Cornu-Britannicum." the authority annotations, suggestions, and corrections made by him on some of these, would shew how carefully he did this, and how much the compiler is indebted to his invaluable aid.

s.—Under Venton. &c., for spring. s.—Saxon, mostly Anglo-Saxon; in the lists of Unexplained Names, serf.

saus. - Sanscrit

s. B.m. - Serf, Bodmin Manumission. See B.m.

Sc.-Scawen's "Observations on an Ancient Manuscript, the Passio Christi," &c., and "A Dissertation on the Cornish Tongue"; Davies Gilbert's History, v. 4, p. 190. Mr. Scawen was Vice-Warden of the Stannaries, 17 cent.

S.G.—S. Greatheed's (Exeter, 1808) MS. notes, in Mr. Hugh Sims's copy of "Pryce's

Archæologia."

T. - Thomas Tonkin (18 cent.). See D., Gw., and Hals.

t. -Teutonic.

t.—Under TRE-, &c , for town, town-place.

Ta. — Tithe Apportionment. Wanted the loan of those named on the cover of Part IV (p. 200), excepting those of S. Anthony in Meneage, Crowan, Sithney, and S. Veep, received since that part was published, in June, 1870.

t.b. - Tin bounds.

T.C.—Mr Thomas Cornish, of Penzance, who corrected many of the sheets of the Glossary, and made many suggestions. The compiler is indebted to him also for the loan of "Particulars of the sale by auction" of large estates, with plans, and his renderings of many of the Cornish Names; as also for provincial words collected by him at the Assizes, sessions, magistrates' meetings, &c.

t.d.d. Tenants named in the Domesday Survey; most of these names are decidedly.

Teutonic; a very small number can be at all looked at as possibly Celtic.

T.Q.C.—Mr. Thomas Quiller Couch. of Bodmin, who is passing through the press "The History of Polperro." He kindly lent the compiler his interleaved copy of the "Index to Martyn's Maps," with translations of several names by himself and others. T.R.—Richards' "British or Welsh and English Dictionary." Tr.—Dr. Tregellas.

v.-Vulgo, vulgarly, commonly.

W .- Under Venton. &c., for well; under Wheal, &c., for work.

w.-Welsh; but in the list of Unexplained Names, witness.

w.B.m.—Witness, Bodmin Manumissions See B.m.

W.B.-Mr. William Bottrell, author of "Traditions and Hearthside Stories of West Cornwall." 1870, who corrected and annotated several sheets of the Glossary.

W.C.B.--Mr. Borlase, of Castle Horneck, Penzance; to whom the compiler is indebted for several renderings, marked B., from the manuscripts of Dr. Borlase.

Wh.-Whittaker's "Ancient Cathedral of Cornwall," 1804; Supplement to Polwhele, &c. W.I.—The Rev. W. Iago, of Westheath, Bodmin.

Woodley's "View of the present state of the Scilly Isles," 1822.

W.S.-Mr. Whitley Stokes' "Passion," 1861; "Gwreans an Bys," 1863; "Cornish Glossary," 1870, &c.

w.s.-Welsh Saints; the names mostly taken from Rice Rees' "Welsh Saints"; and Williams's " Ecclesiastical Antiquities of the Cymri."

W. W.—Mostly William of Worcester's "Itinerary," Davies Gilbert's History, v. 4, p. 222 W.W.K.-Mr. W. Worth Kempthorne, of St. Ives.

Y .- Miss Yonge's "History of Christian Names," 1863.

Z.—Zeuss's "Grammatica Celtica," 1853.

? marks a purely conjectural rendering, &c.; ?? a doubly doubtful one; confirmation or correction solicited from persons bearing the names, or acquainted with the history, traditions, and peculiarities of the places.

!, !!, point to something more or less extraordinary, out of the way, and apparently unfounded. Such is often the case with Hals's derivations and renderings.

= shows that the name is thought to be equivalent to the word or words following.

Roman Caps used for a personal or family name, supposed to enter into the composition of a local name, shew that that name, if requiring explanation, will be found in its proper alphabetical place.

[•] The compiler begs to thank the many Clergy, and other gentlemen, who have lent or procured for him the toal of Tithe Apportionments. He would especially name the following, on account of the number they procured him: Rev. J. J. Wilkinson, Lanteglos by Camelford; Rev. C. M. E. Collins, Trewardale; Mr. T. Cornish and Mr.

ABSTRACT OF DR. BANNISTER'S PAPER

ON

CORNISH NAMES,

Read before the members of the Plymouth Institution, and Devon and Cornwall Natural History Society, February 3. d, 1870.

TO WHICH IS ATTACHED

A SPECIMEN LEAF OF THE GLOSSARY OF CORNISH NAMES

Now being published in parts by subscription.

CORNWALL is a peculiar county: from its geographical position, it may be called "the first and the last" in England, and "one and all" good Cornishmen will maintain that it is also "the best;" and even the inhabitants of Devonshire, "the garden of England," claiming, with excusable and natural partiality, this latter title for their own beautiful county, cannot but allow that it is next to the best, though so late as the time of Queen Elizabeth it was spoken of by Stowe, the annalist, as not in England at all, but "a fourth part of Britaine," the other three being England, Scotland, and Wales; and time was when Devonshire was part of Cornwall, with Exeter, it is thought, for its capital, which city was till the tenth century inhabited conjointly by Cornish and Saxons. Cornish were driven across the Tamar by Athelstane, and it was declared death for one to be found east of its banks—a fact that militates strongly against Professor Huxley's idea that the peaceable and law-loving Devonshire men have as much Celtic blood in them as the violent and lawless Tipperary boys. According to Professor Max Muller, the Cornish, too, are peculiar as a people. They were once Celts, but by the extinction of their old vernacular, without any change of blood, they have become Teutons.

The old language of Cornwall, which did not altogether cease to be spoken till the end of last century, used to be thought Semitic, and allied to the Hebrew, having been introduced by the Phœnicians. Some also have questioned whether the aboriginal inhabitants were not akin to the people now inhabiting the Basque provinces, Lapland matter in and Golongs to the Turanian class of languages. But though the literary remains of the old vernacular are very scanty, yet, embracing as they do a vocabulary of the language as it was spoken before the conquest, and another (and also a grammar of it) as it was used about a century before its final extinction as a spoken language, philologists are able to assert with confidence that it belonged to the Aryan family, was Celtic, and very much resembled the languages of Wales and Brittany; the three-Cornish, Welsh, and Armoricforming, in fact, the Cymric branch; while the Irish, Scotch, and Manx, formed the Gaelic branch of the Celtic tongue. Many genuine Cornish words very much resemble words with the same meaning in the three last languages, and very many more are the same, or all but the same, as those in Welsh and Armoric; and the same may be said with regard to proper names, especially names of places; so that when, in consequence of the scantiness of Cornish literary remains, we are in doubt as to the meaning of a component part of a name, we are justified in going to the other members of the same family for help.

That many names in common use here and everywhere are significant, nobody can deny, though no one, in using them as names, now may think of them as having any meaning in themselves. Names of persons and families were originally either mere sobriquets or nicknames, or descriptive of some peculiarity of person, or circumstance in life, or trade, or occupation, or office, or rank; or they were derived from the father's name, or from some place where the first person who bore it was born, or some remarkable object near which he lived, or the estate which he owned. we get such names as White, Long, Fox, Wolf, Smith, Knight, Hill, Thomas, Williams, Newton; and these and such like common English surnames are very common throughout Cornwall, mixed up with their Celtic equivalents-viz., Wynn = White, more commonly, Angwin the (an) white, showing that the name was first used as a soubriquet to distinguish the person bearing it from some one else having the same forename, or else as a nickname, the man being very dark. So also we have very common Annear (? = an hir, the long); Angove, the (an) smith (gof); Lewarn = luern, fox; Blight (? = bleit, a wolf); Marrack = marheg, a knight; Opie = Offie, i.e., Theophilus, or Hoby, i.e., Robert; Raw or Rowe = Ralph; Bray = bre, a hill; Trenoweth, i.q., Newton; Chynoweth = new (nowedh)2004se)(chix) and by DING. The Salamanca Corpus

There is an old couplet found in Carew's Survey, 55-

"By Tre, Pol, and Pen,
You shall know the Cornishmen."

And as Camden (Remaines 114) gives this-

"By Tre, Ros, Pol, Lan, Caer, and Pen, You may know the most Cornishmen," it has been thought that the names of families most common in Cornwall are those beginning with these Celtic prefixes. It is not so, however; they are far outnumbered by other names equally Celtic with them, common English names, such as I have given above, and patronymics. These last are very common. Nor is this surprising, when Tonkin tells us that he had heard of cases last century where the sons bore their father's Christian name as their surname, and gave their own Christian names as surnames to their children; while others were distinguished by the name of their estate or residence. "I remember," he says, "one of the Tregeas of St. Agnes having three sons; himself was called Leonard Rawe; his eldest son was William Leonard; the second, John a'n Bans, from the place he lived in; and the third, Leonard Tregea."

The meaning of the couplets given by Carew and Camden is, that a great number of Cornish names are of local origin derived from names of places, and a great proportion of these begin with these common prefixes. According to Carew, Tre, Pol, and Pen, mean respectively "a towne, a top, and a head;" while Camden more correctly says of Tre, Ros, Pol, Lan, Caer, and Pen,-they "signifie a towne, a heath, a poole, a church, a castle or citie, and a foreland or promontory." Some of these, however, admit of other meanings. Tre = tref, a dwelling, or a collection of dwellings, and so comes to mean a town, as town formerly was tun, an inclosure, and so might be a farm; and in Cornwall now a farm-yard with its buildings is called "a town place;" and a very small village, a few houses near the parish church, is Church-town;* thus we have Gwennap Church-town, Redruth Church-town-this last a mile from the town of Redruth. Again, Lan is not always a church; it is found prefixed to names of places where there is no reason to suppose there ever was a church; it originally meant an enclosure; and in Wales to this day, its Welsh equivalent Llan, while it is commonly prefixed to the name of a saint, and so forms the name of the church or parish, is also used in its original signification; thus they have perlan, a pear enclosure, i.e., orchard; idlan, a corn enclosure, or stack-yard.

Most names of places in Cornwall are compounds, those of Teutonic origin having the generic or common term last: thus we have Stanton (Stone-town), Milton (either Mill, Middle, or Michael's-town), Padstow (St. Petroc's-place), Millbrook, Alverton (the tun or enclosure of Alnuard, tenant at the time of Domesday), Wadebridge (where formerly there was a ford), Burnt-house (a very common name for villages where formerly there were tin smelting-houses), Highway, Northill, Southill; while those of Celtic origin, as a rule, have the generic term first, followed by the specific, or qualifying, or adjectival term, intended, as is the Teutonic prefix, to distinguish one town, brook, bridge, valley, headland, estate, field, church, &c. from others by some descriptive term, pointing out some noticeable peculiarity, such as size, situation, colour, age; or its productions; or having a personal name attached,—that of a person who has been connected with it, as its builder, owner, occupier, &c. Thus we have Trewartha, higher (wartha) town; Trewolla, lower (wollach) town; Trenhale, the dwelling by the (a'n) moor (hal); Tresare, the carpenter's (saer) dwelling; Trengove, the smith's (an gof) town; Choon and Chywoon, house (chy) on the down (gwon); Chynals, house on the cliff (an als); Chyandowe, house by the water (an dour); Chegwidden, white (gwydn) house; Tywardreath, house (ti) on (war) the sand (traith); Bodwin, white (gwyn) house (bod); Boswallock, lower (gwalloch) house (bos); Bohurra, higher (warra) house; Busvargus, the kite's (bargus) house; Ponsnooth, new (nowedh) bridge (pons); Ponsandane, the man (an den) i. e., foot bridge; Melangoose, wood (cus) mill (melin); Vellanoweth, new mill; Pensignance, head of the dry (sech) valley (nans); Penventon, spring (fenten) head; Penpons, bridge head or end; Penhale, head of the moor (hal); Penhallow, moors (hallow) head; Peninnis, head of the island (enys); Pengelly, head of the grove (celli); Pengover, head of the brook (gover); Borlase, green (glas) summit (bor); Vounder Vor, sea (mor) lane (bounder); Crowz an wragh, witch's (georach) igit Wedsh) Dervis The God mach macrowsan the (an) little (bihan) cross; Kellycoff, the smith's (gof) grove (celli); Kelligog, cuckoo's (gog) grove; Nanceavallen, apple-tree (avallen) valley; Nansagollen, hazle-tree (collen) valley; Hallaze, green (glas) moor (hal); Hallenbeagle, the (an) shepherd's (bigal) moor; Egloshayle, church (eglos) on the river (hayl), or of St. Heli; Egloskerry, the church of St. Keri; Heglosenuder (Domesday), the church of St. Enoder; Goonlaze, green (glas) down (gwon); Woon Bellas, pillas or huskless-oat down; Woondrea, home (tre) down; Goonvrea, hill (bre) down; Browngelly, grove (celli) hill (bron); Burnawithan, the hill with a tree (gwedhen); Carn Near, the long (an hir) carn; Carnbargus, kite's (bargus) earn; Polguin, white (gwyn) pool (pol); Polscatha, boats (scathow) pool; Poladrick, Hydroc's pool; Lanhydrock, Ydroc's church, or farm, or enclosure; Lanner, long (hir) enclosure; Lannarth, high (arth) enclosure.

Names thus formed are found everywhere in the county, and thousands more than these, with equally plain and simple significations, requiring very little change to be made in the spelling, in tracing them to their roots, except such as is always made in the Celtic language in forming compound words. Perhaps the names about which one can speak most positively as to the meaning are those of fields, of which thousands are to be found in the Tithe Apportionments of the several parishes, either pure, just as they were given by those speaking the old Cornish, or in various stages of corruption, resulting from their having been handed down orally, without their signification being known, and often so turned into some English word with a meaning, or from the difficulty the surveyors found in catching the exact sounds, and then accurately expressing them. The most common word for a close or field is Park. Gweal is also frequent, and Eru and Hay also are found. Names beginning with the two former have frequently an, the article before the qualifying word, and this is often corrupted into en, or in, or and; and Parkan is often contracted to Pen. A few examples may be given. Park an Skeber, barn (sceber) close; Parkenvor, field by the road (fordh); Park Vean, or Bean, little (bihan) close; Park Vore, great (mawr) close; Park Wartha, or Warra, higher close; Park Wollas, lower (wollach) close; Park Crase, middle (cres) close; Park Venton, spring (fenten) close; Gweal Scawen, elder-tree (scawen) field; Gwealon, ash (on) field; Gwealnayne, the (an) lamb (ean) field; Gweal Lanchy, field by the (a'n) house (chy) 4. Gweeleant Vernthe Toutsearch field Conveal Darras. field before the door (daras); Gweal Dren, thorn (draen) field; Gweal Dues, sheep (devas) field; Gweal Yate, gate (yet) field; Gweal Paul, pit (pol) or Paul's field; Ero Fenton, spring (fenton) field; Erra Penhale, moor (hal) head (pen) field; Erra Gear, camp (caer) field. A few of the grossest corruptions of these may be interesting. I find fields named Dry Sock, Dry Sack, and Dry Suck; these are plain corruptions of Dreisic, brambly (dreisic) [close]. Whale Drain is = Gweal Drean, thorn field; Clamp Park (in the eastern part of the county Park is almost always put last) is foot-bridge (clam) close; Park and Hall = Park an hal, the moor close, or else Park an Tol, hole (tol) field; Park and Nothing = Park an eithen, furze close. In some cases the surveyor, having heard so many strange-sounding outlandish words without a meaning, seems to have mistaken English words badly pronounced for Celtic ones, and thus we get such names as Sopid (? = sawpit) meadow; Half figure (? = half acre).

Such corruptions, made in our own days, enable us to see what corruptions would be made in olden times, by strangers who had to write down names they knew nothing about, and which perhaps never before had been written or spelled. With the exception of occasional references to the county in Welsh and Anglo-Saxon writers, the oldest source of personal names I have met is the Record of Manumissions of Cornish serfs by Saxon lords in the Bodmin Gospels, now in the British Museum; and that of local names is the Domesday Survey; the former written by Anglo-Saxon, and the latter by Norman, scribes. We have after this a series of charters, deeds, and other documents, in which we find the same names spelled in no end of ways, varying even in the same document, showing that the scribes had no idea of the true orthography or of the meaning of the words. As a consequence the translating of the names of many of our towns, villages, manors, &c., is very uncertain: we cannot do, as may be done with Anglo-Saxon. Welsh, and Irish names, refer to records, histories, poems, &c., written more than a thousand years ago by natives in their vernacular, preserving the true orthography of the names, and so enabling the student to fix with a great deal of certainty the derivation and original meaning. All that we can do is to take the names as they stand, or with such conjectural amendments as the various spelling of the name, analogy of other names, and knowledge of the localityzedts/history. Thraditions & Comple us to make.

and so fix the probable meaning the names bore to Cornishmen when they spoke the Cornish language.

In the glossary of Cornish names, now publishing in parts, I have been charged with giving too many meanings of the same name. But I have done this in order that others may from these various meanings be able to discover the true one, always making it a point to give the Cornish or other words whence I suppose the name to have been derived. Where any recognized authority has given a meaning, I give this on his authority, without vouching for its correctness. Some very absurd meanings have been given by Thus Lostwithiel is made by Carew to mean very learned men. "a lion's (guitfil) tail (lost)," as absurd as the vulgar meaning assigned "Lost i' the hill." The probable meaning seems to be. "The Irishman's (gwydhel) encampment." We know the Irish did make inroads into Britain, as well as send missionaries here. The not distant parish of Withiel may be from an Irish saint: or this name and the latter part of Lostwithiel may be the same as the Welsh gwyddwal, -a place full of bushes, briars, &c. Carvbullock Park was a deer park of the duke's, and, says Carew, "it hath lost its qualitie through exchanging deere for bullocke." Tonkin makes this "Prince's (bulach) town (caer);" it may come from the Welsh bulch, a pass. Of Pennance, a very common name, meaning simply "vale (nans) head (pen)," Drew says, "a name supposed to have been imposed when the place was given to the church as commutation for sins committed." Trescobeas is rendered by Hals "treble or threefold kisses" (baie, to kiss); but Tresco is elder (seaw) town (tre), and beas may = vez, outside. Tresamble in "Gwennap, a poem," by Francis, a native of the parish, is rendered, "The house (tre) on the burdensome (sam) big-belly (bol) hill;" but Sambol is a family name (? = St. Paul), so it may be Sambol's dwelling. And very many names of places are in this latter way to be explained. Many of the suffixes are composed of names that may be recognized as those once common in Wales, names of British saints and princes recorded in Welsh genealogies, and Cornish serfs in the Bodmin Manumissions, and tenants, both Celtic and Teuton, named in Domesday: so that it is useless to attempt to force other signification upon them, though many, doubtless, that originally came from this source have been intentionally or unintentionally altered, to make them bear an apparently fitting meaning by DING. The Salamanca Corpus

With regard to Cornish saints bearing names as strange and outlandish as Cornish places, and altogether ignored by the Roman calendar, it must be remembered that Christianity was established here before the mission of St. Augustine from Rome; that, according to the Welsh Triads, Cornwall was an archiepiscopal see before the foundation of Canterbury; and that many eminent men who fled from constantly encroaching pagan Saxons would find a refuge in Cornwall, and give themselves up here to a religious life, as they did in Wales, building hermitages and founding churches; and though these have been swept away by the hand of time, and other structures have taken their place, dedicated to "orthodox" saints, yet the names of parishes still preserve the names of these original founders.

In conclusion, I beg to solicit co-operation from all interested in this kind of study. All Cornishmen may help by supplying omitted names and correcting mis-fits; i. e., where from want of local information I have given a meaning to a name which, though apparently justified by the sources to which it is referred, is not justified by the peculiarities of the place; while the general philologist may render important assistance by detecting in some of the names, as to the meaning of which I have ventured to make "a guess," traces of some other languages which may have found their way into this extreme corner of Britain. I have given a good many pure Saxon names, and have been blamed for doing so in a professedly "Cornish Glossary;" but many such names are found in all parts of Cornwall, especially in the east; and it is possible that a Turanian scholar may find, more particularly in the lists of unexplained names given with each part of the Glossary, proofs of a Turanian element.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS AND SUBSCRIBERS.

The Compiler begs to thank those who have been at the trouble to verify the conjectural renderings in Part I, and still more, those who have pointed out mistakes and misfits. These will find their suggestions duly attended to in the Appendix of Addenda, Corrigenda, et Delenda, in which will be given, on the completion of the Glossary, explanations of omitted names, improved versions of those already given, and corrections of mistakes and misfits. Hints and helps for this are respectfully solicited.

Original Subscribers may have each Part, as published, at half the price to the public, i.e. at One Shilling a Part and one penny for postage; or, they may have the GLOSSARY alone, i.e. without Appendix, at the price advertized when they gave in their names, which, it has been calculated, will about cover the cost of printing.

Part III is in the press. In this will be published a list of subscribers; and, for the sake of avoiding mistakes, a distinction will be made between those who have subscribed for the whole work, those who subscribe for the Glossary only, and those who pay for each part.

On the publication of Part IV, the price to new subscribers will be 10s, 6d.; and on the completion of the work, the copies not subscribed for will be One Pound. A printed unall take great the rate as a manage of the whole work when completed, is given with the receipt for the money to each Subscriber.

Subscribers who have not received Part I, are desired to communicate with the

TO CORRESPONDENTS AND SUBSCRIBERS.

Notwithstanding all the care taken in compiling the Glossary, and assistance received from various parts of the county, the Compiler is fully aware, that, from the utter impossibility of getting to know all about all the Names and Places, and from the variety of sources to which many Cornish names may be referred, many of his conjectural renderings must be very doubtful, and that there are misfits and mistakes not a few. See above. Hirts and Help, especially from those who bear the names, or are connected with, or know the places, to correct the mistakes already made, and to avoid them for the future, solicited.

The Compiler takes this opportunity of thanking those who have pre-paid their subscriptions, 7/6 for the Glossary and Supplement, as he has thus been able, so far, to pay the cost of printing, advertizing, &c., without adding to the great expense incurred during the past twelve years, in amassing the names found in the Glossary, collecting information, and seeking, by lectures, correspondence, &c., to excite interest in the subject of Cornish Nomenclature.

The compiler begs to acknowledge his special obligation to the following subscribers to the Glossary, who, by pre-paying their subscriptions, have enabled him, so far, to pay the cost of printing. A list of all the subscribers will be given in Part V, now in the press. The work may still be obtained by old subscribers at the price advertised when they gave in their names. NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS, &c.

The compiler has now fulfilled his undertaking to those original subscribers who chose to have the Glossary alone, as this is now complete and has been furnished to them at less than cost price—the expenses incurred in collecting names, printing, correcting the press, &c., having been much more than was anticipated. The Glossary, thus complete, is in the binder's hands; a copy will be forwarded by the compiler on the receipt of 12s., or the work may be ordered of the booksellers.

Those subscribers who have pre-paid their subscriptions for GLOSSARY and SUPPLEMENT in ten parts will, in due course receive, free of cost, the remaining three parts. The compiler has not fully made up his mind as to the form which the supplement shall assume. He has accumulated materials for a vocabulary, giving in alphabetical order the English words used in explaining the names in the Glossary, with the Cornish, Welsh, Armoric, or other corresponding words which, he supposes, have entered into the composition of the names, and he may give this, or as much as will occupy the ninety-two pages due to these subscribers; or, he may occupy that space with Essays on the genius and peculiarities of Cornish Nomenclature, &c.

Some correspondents have made suggestions as to a second Edition of the GLOSSARY. Doubtless if such were called for, the compiler, with his increased information and greater experience, could make many improvements, and at the same time lessen the size of the work, by omitting names which are not properly Cornish, or for which satisfactory explanations cannot be given, and, not giving some of the explanations, which, however doubtful, or, in the opinion of the compiler, altogether unsatisfactory, yet having been propounded by scholars who have made the Cornish language and Cornish nomenclature a study, he thought, ought to be found in a first attempt of this sort, that all who take an interest in the subject might form their own conclusions as to the meaning of the names. But as, from the comparatively small number of persons that take an interest in the subject, he does not suppose a second edition will be required, he wishes to make the supplement, as far as possible, answer the same purpose, by correcting mistakes, supplying omissions, &c. Hints and help solicited.

New subscribers will be received on payment of 15s.; for which they will receive The GLOSSARY, as soon as it is received from the binder; and, as soon as published, the SUPPLEMENT, with which will be given a complete list of subscribers who have paid their subscriptions. The price of GLOSSARY and SUPPLEMENT, bound in one volume, will be £1 to non-subscribers.

Subscribers, or the representatives of deceased subscribers, who have not received their copies of so much of the work as has been published, are desired to intimate the same; and those who have not paid their subscriptions are of the send a cheque, or post office order, payable at scriptions are of the send a cheque, or post office order, payable at St. Day, Cornwall, to JOHN BANNISTER.
